DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

1. A rejection based on double patenting of the "same invention" type finds its support in the language of 35 U.S.C. 101 which states that "whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process ... may obtain a patent therefor ..." (Emphasis added). Thus, the term "same invention," in this context, means an invention drawn to identical subject matter. See Miller v. Eagle Mfg. Co., 151 U.S. 186 (1894); In re Ockert, 245 F.2d 467, 114 USPQ 330 (CCPA 1957); and In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970).

A statutory type (35 U.S.C. 101) double patenting rejection can be overcome by canceling or amending the conflicting claims so they are no longer coextensive in scope. The filing of a terminal disclaimer cannot overcome a double patenting rejection based upon 35 U.S.C. 101.

2. Claims 1-4 are provisionally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as claiming the same invention as that of claims 1-4 of copending Application No. 10/695454. This is a provisional double patenting rejection since the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Nagao (JP-2002-137067).

Art Unit: 1725

Nagao teaches a base support, a threaded shaft rotatably mounted to the base support, a first drive source mounted on the base support, an elevating member engaged with the threaded shaft, a first drive shaft mounted to the elevating member and mounting a friction agitation weld tool to the distal end, a second drive shaft mounted coaxially with the first drive shaft and a second drive source fixedly mounted on the base support (abstract, figures and paragraphs [0015] – [0025] of the translation) wherein the elevating member comprises a cylindrical casing enclosing the first drive shaft therein and extending near the distal end of the first drive shaft (figures and paragraphs [0015] – [0025]), a back-up tool fixedly mounted in alignment with and spaced apart from the welding tool to the base support (figures and paragraphs [0015] – [0025]) wherein the friction welding tool is adapted to be detachably installed to a robot (paragraph [0014]).

5. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Nagao (US 2004/0195290 A1).

Nagao teaches a base support, a threaded shaft rotatably mounted to the base support, a first drive source mounted on the base support, an elevating member engaged with the threaded shaft, a first drive shaft mounted to the elevating member and mounting a friction agitation weld tool to the distal end, a second drive shaft mounted coaxially with the first drive shaft and a second drive source fixedly mounted on the base support (abstract and paragraphs 12-19) wherein the elevating member comprises a cylindrical casing enclosing the first drive shaft therein and extending near the distal end of the first drive shaft (figures and paragraphs 12-19), a back-up tool fixedly mounted in alignment with and spaced apart from the welding tool to the base support (figures and paragraphs 12-19) wherein the friction welding tool is adapted to be detachably installed to a robot (paragraph 10).
